Local Men Chosen as Outstanding

Two Bethesda area residents are among ten nationally chosen by the National Civil Service League this week as the outstanding Federal Government Career workers for 1963.

They are: Arthur C. Lunz, of 4401 Chestnut Street, Bethesda, assistant director for photographic intelligence, Central Intelligence Agency.

He is considered the "most distinguished authority" in the nation on photographic intelligence and was involved in analysis of the Cuban situation.

Gregory K. Hartmann, of 10701 Keswick Street, Garrett Park, technical director of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

He is a Rhodes Scholar, educated at California Institute of Technology and Oxford and Brown Universities. He has been responsible for several important surveys and advances in weapons technology.

The winners will be honored March 26 at a dinner at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington.
